2014 CONVENTION

Save Valley Hunts Continue In Zimbabwe

Today, the Zimbabwean Ministry of Environment, Water and Climate announced that it would like to clarify the situation regarding hunting in the Save Valley Conservancy (SVC).

According to the release, "The government of Zimbabwe, through the Ministry, has approved a new structure for the SVC that will meet its indigenization criteria. We would like to confirm that the operators, who have previously owned or operated concessions in the SVC, will continue in this role under the indigenization framework and have been authorized to sell hunts for the 2014 season and beyond. As such, the Parks and Wildlife Management Authority have issued the quota for the SVC, and the Government of Zimbabwe is supportive of a full and productive hunting season. Additionally, they will ensure the timely export of all trophies taken."
